

Justin Philips
Graphic Design
Wild Sheep Foundation

Biography

On May 15th 2007 Justin Phillips joined the Wild Sheep Foundation staff as the in house graphic designer and web-master. For the past 11 years Phillips has had a wide-range of experience in the design world and earned two degrees; one from the Art Institute of Seattle and another from Montana State University while staying on the Dean's List and also receiving design awards along the way.

Before beginning his profession in the graphics world he was a fire fighter for the United States Forest Service for 7 seasons in northwest Montana. Firefighting took him over much of the western United States in a career that spanned over 90 fires in different roles from sawyer to Incident Commander to helicopter crewmember.

Justin has hunted big game in Montana for seventeen years. During that time he has taken elk, whitetails, mule deer, antelope, and turkeys. Fishing has taken him to Washington, California, Texas, Mexico and Costa Rica.
