

Briella Cohle, PA

My name is Gabriella Cohle, but I go by Briella. I was born and raised in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. I joined the PA Army National Guard at 19 years old during my freshman year of college. I spent seven years in the Guard as a truck driver. I went to Harrisburg Area Community College and earned my Associates Degree in Nursing and then went on to earn a Bachelor of Science in Nursing through Millersville University. I have been a nurse for seven years at an urgent care center where I worked my way up from being a part time nurse out of graduation to overseeing the entire center.

My biggest achievement is being a supportive wife and loving mother. My husband and I share an 18-month-old son who is our whole world. Growing up, I spent a lot of time at my grandparents' house in upstate New York. It was here that I developed a love for the outdoors from spending all day, every day in the forest surrounding their house. This passion for wildlife has continued well into my adulthood, which led to my interest in hunting and conservation.

In my spare time I enjoy being outside, going on hikes, and of course spending time with my son. I didn't have any hunters in my family growing up, so everything is very new, and I am enjoying learning. My goal this year is to go rifle hunting for the first time ever and hopefully harvesting my first deer. My dream hunts are wild boar and gator, and of course the ever-coveted wild sheep.
